Town plans more talks on creek dredging

BY CHARLES SWENSON COASTAL OBSERVER

Before it spends any money on studies, the town of Pawleys Island wants to find out from engineers whether a project to dredge Pawleys Creek is likely to get permits from federal and state regulators.

The town is committed to pursuing the issue, Mayor Brian Henry said. He wants to get the information at a budget workshop next month.

"It's a way to keep moving forward," Henry said.

Shoaling in the creek has been a concern of island property owners since the 1980s. A study commissioned by the Pawleys Island Civic Association in 1980 pointed out that it was a natural

MIDWAY FIRE AND RESCUE

Chief will end 35-year career with department

By Chris Sokoloski COASTAL OBSERVER

Midway Fire and Rescue Chief Doug Eggiman may be retiring at the end of the year, but he's not going anywhere.

Eggiman plans to stay on as a volunteer.

'You reach a point where you realize it's time for you and your family," Eggiman said. "I finally came to the conclusion that it's time to move on to whatever that next chapter might be."

Eggiman's plans were made public this week after he informed his senior staff.

It was an "emotional" day, he

"It's very surreal. It's very emotional at times," Eggiman said. "Honestly it's kind of a weird sense of relief."

Eggiman will join Midway's fire corps, a group of volunteers who help out with things like administrative work, public education, fire inspections, fire scene cleanups, and taking vehicles to and from repair shops.

"They're a huge, huge help," Eggiman said. "There's several things I could jump on board to help with."

Board invalidates voter registration of candidate for Georgetown mayor

BY CHARLES SWENSON COASTAL OBSERVER

A third-party candidate for mayor of Georgetown was disqualified to vote last week by the Georgetown County Board of Voter Registration and Elections. It was a pattern of changes that coincided with elections that concerned the board's chairman. You don't want people playing games with the system," said

James Sanderson. Jason Collins is running as the Independence Party candidate to unseat incumbent Democrat Brendon Barber. Carol Jayroe, a City Council member, is running as a Republican.

Collins changed his address in February to 622 Washington St., the former American Legion post where he operates a onechair barbershop. He told the election board that he planned to run for mayor because he was told Barber didn't plan to seek a second term.

"I'm not trying to break no laws or rules," he said. "This is not the first time I've actually lived in the barbershop."

Three decades ago Lao Tizer started taking music lessons while he was in middle school. He now tours the world with his jazz band.

He encouraged Waccamaw High School students this week to never give up music, even if they choose a different path than

"Don't give up. Stick with it," Tizer said. "You will get a lot of enjoyment out of it."

Tizer was in town with his band to at the Pawleys Island Festival of Music and Art. His appearance at the high school Wednesday morning was part of the festival's community and educational outreach programs.

"The students were intrigued by Lao's music, especially after getting to hear his backstory," said DeAndrae Preston, the school's music teacher and band director. "They came back to class ready to jump in the practice room to sharpen their own Tizer believes arts programs are "vital" in schools.

"The benefits of education are so vast, well beyond if these kids become professional musicians or not," Tizer said. "As we know, music exercises so many different parts of your brain. It's good for math. it's good for science, it's good for alternative thinking. ... And there's the whole spiritual side of it. It's good for the soul and it brings people together."

Music bridges the many divides the world has, Tizer added.

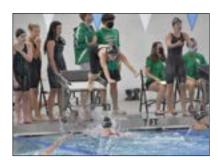

"It crosses everything, ethnic, religious, geographic, cultural, especially jazz, especially instrumental music" Tizer said. "We get to travel the world a lot and to be able to connect with of the American television show "Emergency!", which followed the lives of firefighters in Los Angeles.

"For so many of us that helped push us in this path," Eggiman said.

However, America and a career in the food and beverage industry started calling.

Eggiman moved to the Waccamaw Neck in August 1985 to work as a night auditor/safety coordinator at Litchfield by the Sea,

"It was just a great opportunity in a growing area," he said. "I moved here and decided this was going to be my home. I couldn't imagine ever leaving here." He decided to volunteer at Midway as a way to meet people. Eve Casselman was the Midway dispatcher who gave Eggiman an application. She later became his wife and they have three daughters: Stephanie, Tiffafirefighter. In 1997, he became one of Midway's first battalion chiefs, and was promoted to TIDES AT THE BEACH assistant chief in July 2001.

"I can remember it was a big deal when we broke 300 calls," Eggiman said. "It would be highly unlike- Oct. 15 ly that we're not going to Oct. 16 break 4,000 calls this year."

When Dan Wetsel retired in April 2003, Eggiman was named interim chief. Two months later, the Oct. 20 interim tag was removed.

"I've just been very blessed over the years," Eggiman said.

The biggest changes since he joined the department are the growth of the area and the increased focus on firefighters' safety, health and wellness and cancer prevention, Eggiman said.

'We've brought the line of duty deaths down dramatically from when I first started," he said.

What Eggiman will miss the most is the day-to-day interaction with the firefighters, which is why he wants to volunteer.

Hall of fame helps build on traditions

THERE OUGHT TO BE A TROPHY for the team ▲ that put together the Waccamaw High School Athletic Hall of Fame. It is another stage in an event that began 31 years ago with the goal of building a community. It's a marathon, not a sprint, and there is no finish line, only the steady pursuit of excellence.

It is a familiar thought expressed at graduations and other ceremonies that our students are our future leaders, workers and parents. The hall of fame ceremony this month put flesh on the bones of a tired cliché. Some members of first class of inductees returned with their own young families. All returned with careers. It was a chance to celebrate past achievements in high school, but also to recognize that those achievements were only a preamble.

Athletics is a natural starting point for the hall of fame. It is a way to let the current generation of student athletes - and coaches - know about those who came before them and use their accomplishments as a challenge. Records are made to be broken. But Waccamaw High also plans an academic hall of fame. It is important to realize that achievement takes place in many venues.

One recent example is a former WHS student who was a standout in both cross country and soccer. He recently earned a different type of medal. Blake Marsh, class of 2015, received a Meritorious Action Award from Midway Fire and Rescue for helping first responders save a driver whose vehicle was submerged in a pond at Litchfield Country Club. That is the sort of achievement that the school, like the rest of the community, can celebrate and remember.

Scott Streiffert, a former social studies teacher and coach at Waccamaw High, has long argued that the school needs an alumni association. The hall of fame should give that idea some momentum, particularly as the school reaches into the broader community for nominees for future honors. It is a way to connect former students with the school and with the community.

Some of Waccamaw High's graduates have since returned to the school as parents of a new generation of students. That's an important change in a community that is often seen as a retirement or vacation destination. It is an opportunity to develop and preserve traditions. The high school hall of fame will help.

A welcome change on the South Causeway

To the editor:

about speeding cars on the Pawleys Island South Causeway and gathering signatures on petitions to lower the 35-mph speed limit to 25 mph, residents of houses fronting on the South Causeway and of neighborhoods close by have reason to celebrate. The speed limit for most of the South Causeway from Highway 17 First responders to the salt marsh has now been reduced to 25 mph. But the speeding continues.

The sheriff's department, responding to requests from those who walk, walk their dogs, bike, jog and drive their golf carts on this residential street with no sidewalks, has been very responsive to neighborhood concerns, issuing speeding tickets at a rapid clip. Those of us requesting stepped-up enforcement of the new speed limit intend to keep requesting increased enforcement (and more speed limit signs) until we see some results.

Vintage Neil Simon play helps mark 50th season

BY CHRIS SOKOLOSKI COASTAL OBSERVER

One man's three attempts at an extramarital affair is the basis of "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," the latest production of the Swamp Fox Players.

"It's funny and it's poignant," said Kathy Anderson, the director. "It will make some people uncomfortable in some places."

The play, written by Neil Simon, is the story of Barney, a middle-aged man who in 1969 believes the sexual revolution has passed him by so he decides to have an affair.

Sophomore gets silver at State

By Chris Sokoloski COASTAL OBSERVER

Waccamaw High's Nina Sitas capped off her sophomore season with a silver medal in the 100-yard free at the Class 3A State swimming championships on Saturday.

"I came into the meet ranked third and got second. It's a great day," Sitas said. "It's the highest I've ranked individually for State."

Sitas also finished seventh in the 50-yard free.

"Nina really proved what a strong competitor she is," Warriors coach Adam Dear said. She had a rough start on the 50 free, but she didn't let it get to her at all. She stayed focused and went on to get the silver in the 100 free, it was really great to see as Ella Speir finished fourth in the 100-yard backstroke and fifth in the 500-yard free.

"I didn't hit my best time, but that's OK," Speir said.

Sitas, Spier, Micah Price and Savannah Jansky were fifth in in the 200-yard free relay.

"I think we did really well," Sitas said. "I didn't do as well as I wanted to and some of the girls feel the same."

Price also finished 10th in the 200-yard free and 11th in the 500-yard free.

Jansky finished 14th in the 100-yard backstroke and 22nd in the 200-yard individual medley.

Waccamaw's 200-yard medley team - Katie Key, Scarlett Van Bloem, Cara Targonski and Mirella Paglio – finished 13th.

Key also finished 13th in the 100-yard backstroke and 29th in the 200-yard individual medley.

Under and by virtue of Tax Executions for taxes past due and unpaid. Property levy has been made on real estate and personal property hereinafter described as designated in the office of the County Assessor. In accordance with S.C. Law.

I will sell the same at auction to the highest bidder on Monday, November 1, 2021 at the Howard Auditorium, 1610 Hawkins Street, Georgetown S.C. Sale begins at 10:00 a.m. Bidder sign in is 9:00-9:45 a.m.

Bidder Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, October 14, 2021 and will end at 12:00 noon on Friday, October 29, 2021.

Registration is not permitted the day of sale.

An updated list of properties will be available to Bidders as they sign in and get their number.

Bidder information and a current list of properties to be sold can be found prior to the sale on our website: www.GeorgtownCountyTreasurer.com

Miriam E. Mace Georgetown County Treasurer/Tax Collector

The Last Day to Pay Delinquent Property Taxes

To avoid a property from being sold at the tax sale, payment must be made by 5:00 p.m. on October 29, 2021. Acceptable payment will be cash, certified check or money order only. Payments issued via U.S. mail postmarked prior to October 29, 2021 are acceptable. Remit to Georgetown County Treasurer, PO Box 421270, Georgetown, S.C. 29442.

John Felton aces No. 11 at Heritage Plantation

BY CAROL BULONE FOR THE OBSERVER

Last week at Heritage Plantation, John Felton took on the par 3 11th hole which plays approximately 132 yards.

Felton selected his 9-iron for the shot to the elevated green guarded by sand traps.

He and his playing partners, Andy Rule, Davis Overton and Jeffrey Miller (all from Knoxville, Tenn.), watched as the ball hit the green just left of the hole, took a spin to the right, rolled about 4 feet and disappeared into the cup.

This is Felton's second hole-in-one; a little bonus added to a golf holiday with his buddies.

general always tends to motivate a swimmer to try their best."

Oceanside Collegiate was first with 405 points, St. Joseph's was second with 387, and Christ Church was third with 343.

"There was definitely a lot of great competition," Sitas said. "I think we now have a better understanding of who all the teams are that we're going to be racing against since throughout the season we don't race against a lot of these teams."

"A lot of these teams have club swimmers and they're really competitive," Speir said.

"It was a great way to end an already great season," Warriors coach David Dear said. "We have a young and talented team. I would expect many more to qualify next year."

"It was a great meet, but I think next year we will have many more medals," Silva said.

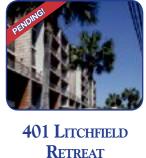

Nina Sitas starts the anchor leg of the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Warriors fall | Waccamaw High's football team lost 55-6 to Dillon on Friday. The Warriors only points came on a touchdown pass from Jaret Yonker to Kam Green, at left. Waccamaw, 1-5 on the season, is off this week. The Warriors travel to Lake View on Oct. 22
